

‘Exploring Watercolor’ One Day Workshop with Ann Marie Dalis

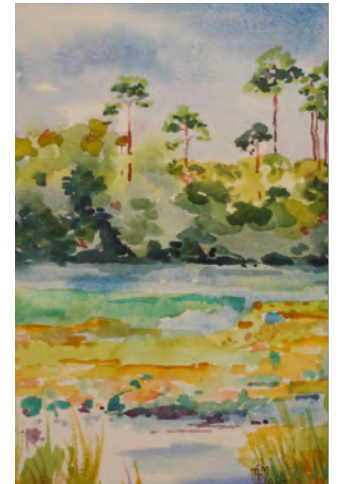

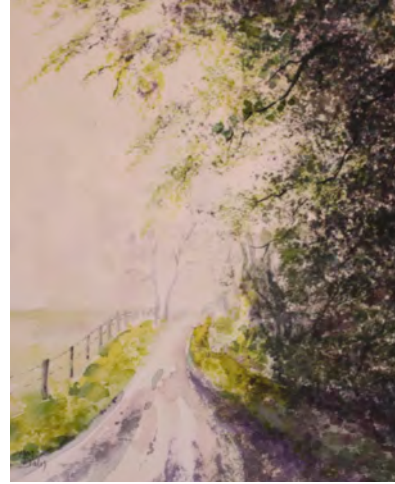

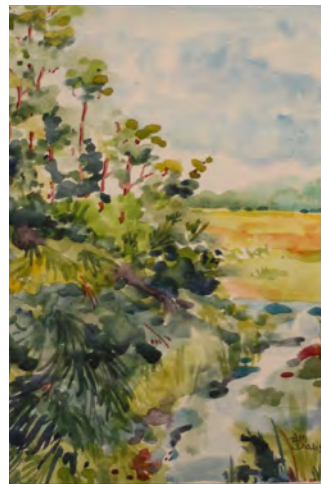

Former Executive Director, Glynn Visual Arts at St. Simon’s Island • Painter, Potter, Art Teacher

What can you do with three primary colors? So much! At 5 years of age Ann Marie was gifted a Prang watercolor set, but when she opened the box there were only three colors: red, yellow and blue! Her professor dad said she would learn to mix the missing colors. Tough art love!

This workshop will cover what Ann Marie teaches on the first day of a Road Scholar watercolor workshop. All that you need for the day is included in the supply/use fee, so bring your lunch and learn how much is possible with three colors! You will start with a creative color wheel and explore different color schemes. The afternoon will be spent trying out your color knowledge on small paintings and note cards.

The best thing about watercolor, it is effective and so inexpensive and fun all at the same time!

A supply list of what materials and tools we have used will be available at the workshop.
Bring your positivity and a bag lunch.
